But however commendable, in the ordinary sense of the be injurious? Some say it will, some say it ease from which he died was contracted on term, such a step may be, in the meta- won't. The only means of deciding which phorical and somewhat vulgar acceptation side is right is to make a small experiment of the words, it is best to 'keep one's shirt and if the delay that has been granted to on, whatever the temperature may be, the Sanitary Board permits of a practical At the last meeting of the Sanitary Board, test being made, it is as well the question the superincumbent air, towards the end was not settled at last meeting. of the sitting, did become a little warm, but the heat was by no means so strong as to justify Mr Mitchell Innes in taking off-metaphorically, of course-his wellstarched under garment. This young official, along with a supply of brains somewhat above the average of the official class, possesses a rather irritable temper and has been rather liberally endowed with a guid conceit of himself - peculiarities which, during his occupancy of the magisterial beach, somewhat seriously detracted from the otherwise fairly good work which then performed. Mr Mitchell-Innes has now been elevated into a higher sphere and Egyptian preference shares justified subjects he had to deal with while presiding French policy in Egypt will have to be at the Police Court; and one of the results of the conjunction was the little scene at last meeting of the Sanitary Board, in which our young official did not shine to advantage. At the first meeting of the new Sanitary Board it was stated that there were to be no official and unofficial members in the sense understood in the Legislative Council, but at all the meetings of the Board the distinction between the two classes has been marked. In dealing with open questions there has sometimes been a migration from one side to the other. Mr Stewart Lockhart sometimes found that his duty to the Chinese, of whom he was the protector, did not justify him in following Mr Price's lead, When, however, any question in which the Government was directly concerned was being discussed, no sheep ever travelled over to the side of the goats. Mr Francis had therefore considerable justification for saying at last meeting that, in deciding about a matter in which the Government had declared that it had definitely resolved to do such and such and only wished to know if the Board objected, the officials, however long a delay was granted, would be found voting one way and the unofficials another. By the very constitution of the Board it could not be otherwise, for the officials are not members of the Board as citizens but in virtue of the office they hold. Mr Mit-Apart from this personal matter, we are THE Agent of the Canadian Pacific Steam-chell-Innes, however, with his peculiar hot temper, discovered in Mr Francis' remark a reflection on his honour and an insinuation that he was voting against his conscience. If public men were to display such ultra-French touchiness, were to cry out about outraged honour whenever any one insinuated that their opinions were influenced by the party they belonged to or even hinted that they voted at their party's call, life would be unbearable and public discussion an impossibility. We are perfeetly willing to believe that Mr. Mitchell-Junes and the Acting Registrar General are the 15th, at daylight, and will call at of one mind on the question of the d posal of the city refuse, but this does not preclude the very natural supposition that the opinion of Citizen Mitchell-Innes was influenced by the Acting Registrar General inclined to differ from Mr Francis as to ship Line informs us that teas ex Batavia the advisability of adjourning the discussion on the disposal of the city refuse. This is a question in which the citizens generally are or ought to be deeply interested, as it is one that intimately affects their health. The matter has only now-been-laid before the public with any degree of fulness, and it is THE Agent of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co. not an easy thing to decide which of the informs us that the s.s. At any rate, the scheme seems so feasible that it might be worth a trial, especially as the work is of such a nature that it can be easily stopped if the experiment yields bad results. There are, however, other considerations besides the financial and purely sanitary ones. Is it advisable to reclaim the bay? Is it not serving a better purpose as a harbour of refuge? Six boatmen were charged at the Police Court to-day with being in possession of arms without a permit. A Chinese constable said the junk and two small boats pulled out last night from Lap-sap-wan in westerly direction. He was in the police boat at the time and saw they exhibited no lights. He called on them to stop and they paid no attention. He then went alongside, and on board the junk he found 53 rifles, 49 bayonets, 3 flasks of powder and 60 bags of saltpetre. The six. defendants were on board. They were each fined $50, with the alternative of six weeks hard labour, the arms to be forfeited.

A WEEKLY JOURNAL FOR THE HOME MAIL

TS PUBLISHED to suit the Departure of each English and French Mari Steamer for Europe. Formerly the Over-land issue was published fortnightly; but as it was deemed of special importance that a weekly budget of news should be prepared, it was decided to issue it weekly. Subscribers at Home, and those at the Coast Ports and in the interior, who find the Overland edition a convenient form of newspaper for their perusal, will welcome the change. The Overland China Mail, now a weekly compendium of news from the Far East, contains special Commercial intelli-gence, special tables of Shipping, and other information. The various Reports of Courts and Meetings, and all other news, are given in full as they appear in the Daily issue. The attention of Advertisers is directed to a weekly newspaper, which is circulated among old China, hands and others, both at home and in the Far East, who do not take the daily journals.

The Overland China Mail will be regularly
